'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

This pee wee golf business is getting to be a big business in the United States.

* * * *

It seems, so the story goes, that once three Scotchmen decided to build a golf course.

* * * *

After they had priced land for a course, they decided to buy a two by two lot and then installed their course.

* * * *

And thus, children of the radio land, pee wee golf had its instigation.

* * * *

Of course, you can take this for what it's worth.

* * * *

If anything.

* * * *

Speaking of golf the latest safety device was recently shown at Los Angeles.

* * * *

A caddy appeared on a golf course dressed in an apparatus that was a cross between a catcher's outfit and a fencing costume.

* * * *

Said costume was made entirely of stiff wire.

* * * *

What America needs today, besides a good five cent cigar and a fish story that can be believed, is a golf score that won't be scoffed at.

* * * *

The army is about as easy to get into a bank safe, from all appearances.

* * * *

According to the Army and Navy Journal, during the period of April 1 to June 30, 1930, 9691 men applied for enlistment in the infantry, artillery and other branches of the service.

* * * *

And of this number, only 4481 were accepted.

* * * *

The other 5210 were rejected for various reasons.

Mrs. Oesterreich Fate Debated

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21.—UP—With final arguments still being made to the jury, possibility that the fate of Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich, charged with the murder of her husband, Fred Oesterreich, Milwaukee manufacturer, would be placed in the hands of the jury faded late today.

Although attorneys for both sides had previously agreed to limit arguments to three and a half hours each, the defense exceeded its time. The prosecution made no attempt to halt the argument of the defense and it was expected that as a result final arguments might extend well into tomorrow morning with the case probably reaching the jury in the afternoon.

Mrs. Oesterreich was jointly indicted with Otto Sanhuber, who was described as her "attic lover" for the slaying eight years ago of the wealthy manufacturer. Sanhuber was found guilty of manslaughter but escaped under the three year statute of limitations.

Mark Fleming acted as intermediary in the deals, Olmsted testified.

McKinney agreed to warn Olmsted of any movements that were being complicated against him. Olmsted said.

Most of the day's session was taken up with further cross examination of Hubberd in an attempt of the defense to break down his previous story and to build up impeaching testimony.

Hubbard appeared fresher than he did yesterday when he became irritated and impatient, and frequently smiled as he answered all questions and turned off attempts to cross him on the testimony he gave during his examination by the government last week.

PLANS FOR NEW $150,000 MARKET NEAR FINISH

Plans are now being completed for the building of a drive-in market, one of the first of its kind in the eastbay region, which is to be located at Twenty-third street and Macdonald avenue.

The building, which will represent a $60,000 development, will be of Mission style of architecture and will be of the most beautiful type of construction.

Announcements were made last week of the plans for the building, following the sale of a $90,000 piece of property by the Murdock-L'Hommeduie Land corporation in their subdivision known as Metropolitan Square at Twenty-third street and Macdonald.

The building will be constructed with two wings, the north wing which will be 200 feet long facing Macdonald avenue and the west wing which will be 100 feet long parallel to Twenty-third street. This will provide parking area of approximately 12,000 square feet in the court between the wings.

It is announced that the major portion of the north wing will be occupied by a prominent chain store. This will leave 6500 feet for store and concession space. A 10-foot delivery behind the north wing will provide space for the trucks of tenants. Interior finish will be of brick with arch-beamed ceilings and ornamental fixtures. The entire construction will be completely modern and a central rotunda tower effect and small towers at the end of each of the wings to carry out the Mission style of architecture.

Construction on this market is expected to start within the next 60 days and it is probable that it is the first of several of this type of market that will be built at various locations in the east bay.

Charges Against Movies Dismissed

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21.—UP—Charges of violation of the Sherman anti-trust law against 11 major film producing corporations were dismissed by Federal Judge George Cosgrave here today when attorneys announced they had reached a settlement out of court.

The criminal action was dropped by the government to pave the way for a civil suit in the form of a bill of equity, under whose terms the agreement was reached.

According to counsel, the bill will encompass a "consent decree" which is regarded as a chart for the guidance of the motion picture industry in distribution of pictures.

The bill, it was said, will restrain the defendants from entering any conspiracy whose purpose would be in violation of the anti-trust law.

The criminal indictment was returned against the producers by a federal grand jury during April of last year, on complaint of independent motion picture exhibitors who charged the film makers with combining to force showing of certain productions.

She revealed this today when she called reporters to her bedside to advise them of her future conduct in the new feud fith her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy.

Appears Pale

Mrs. McPherson was pale and her eyes appeared strained, the result of her nervous breakdofn, but there was no indication that she was "deathly sick" or that her sight was affected to any great degree, as reported by her secretary, Miss Emma Schaeffer.

Before the interview, the visitors were advised by Mae Waldron, assistant to Mrs. McPherson and stormy petrel in the present mother daughter row, that questions about facial operations were not to be submitted.

Miss Waldron censored all queries, which were written at her insistence, and only two were passed to the evangelist.

"No," the evangelist said in a low voice to the question of whether she would give answers to Mrs. Kennedy's most recent charges against her.

Undecided

"I don't know," she said when asked if she would appear before her congregation Sunday.

Then Mrs. McPherson groaned and Miss Waldron pushed protesting newspapermen from the room.

"Sister fainted," Miss Waldron said. "I will answer all other questions for her."

Declined to Talk

Miss Waldron herself declined to talk about facial operations.

"Sister doesn't want to say anything about that, I know," she

NEW HEARING FOR MOONEY ASKED

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21.—UP—Additional affidavits were being gathered today to be placed in the record of the hearing of Warren K. Billings for a pardon. Billings is serving a life sentence in Folsom prison, charged with complicity in the 1916 San Francisco preparedness day bombing.

The seven justices of the state supreme court last night ended the public hearing. The court will decide on a petition of Edwin V. McKenzie, attorney for Billings, to further argue the case before the justices.

Meanwhile, Frank P. Walsh, attorney for Thomas Mooney, convicted with Billings for perpetration of the outrage, will present a new petition for pardon of his client, on grounds that new evidence had been presented during Billings' hearing. It was expected that Walsh will ask for a personal appearance of Mooney before Gov. C. C. Young.

Mooney's pardon lies solely in the hands of the governor, but Billings, because he is a two-timer' must have the sanction of the supreme court before the governor can grant him a pardon.

Decision on both pardon applications was not expected for several weeks.

McKenzie said today that he was "hopeful" for the success of his client's case.

Edward A. Cunha, former assistant district attorney who testified against Billings in the original trial, said today that he could not "see how these men can be pardoned."

AIMEE TO REST FOR MONTH AT COTTAGE

said, "You saw her so you know whether or not she had a face lift."

In the future, Miss Waldron said, Mrs. McPherson simply will ignor any statements from her mother.

"Sister feels that mother Kennedy doesn't realize that she is saying," Miss Waldon declared.

Was Quarrel

"They have quarreled, of course, and it looks as if the wound could not be healed. But sister still loves Mother Kennedy and wants Mother Kennedy to come to her.

"Sister will not take any action or make any further replies to the charges that she broke mother's nose. Sister won't say anything more about the argument that caused Mother Kennedy to leave the church. She doesn't want to discuss those things. She just wants to rest and get ready to go back to Angelus temple."

Although Mrs. McPherson said she didn't know whether she would be at the Temple Sunday, Miss Waldron assured that she would not be there.

Away Month

"It probably will be a month," Miss Waldron stated.

Miss Waldron said that, following Mrs. McPherson's example, she, too, would pay no attention to anything said by Mrs. Kennedy.

This was an abrupt turnabout for Miss Waldron who previously told reporters that she once had to lock Mrs. Kennedy in a closet "because she talked so much."

Changes Made

Although Mrs. McPherson and Miss Waldron were quiet there was no let up from Mrs. Kennedy.

She repeated again her charges that Miss Waldron was at the bottom of the trouble, that Miss Waldron was attempting to get control of Angelus Temple from Mrs. McPherson, that her nose was broken by Mrs. McPherson and that her life was threatened by her daughter.

"Sister and I would have gone along fine if Miss Waldron hadn't butted in," Mrs. Kennedy said. "I saw she was trying to get the temple and I intervened for sister. All I got for my troubles was a broken nose and a lot of abuse."

Prayer Continued

Prayers for Brs. McPherson's immediate recovery were continued today at the temple under the supervision of Miss Schaeffer.

The secretary for the first time since the evangelist's illness did not contend that Mrs. McPherson was blind.

"Sister had a comfortable morning," she said to questions. "I don't care to say anything about her eyes."

Aimee Better

Previously, despite physician's reports to the contrary, Miss Schaeffer maintained that "sister is blind."

Dr. E. H. Williams, attending Mrs. McPherson, said her condition was improved today and said a little rest could mean complete recovery for her.

Tells How Fat Men Can Lose Half a Pound a day

Here's a simple way to get rid of that corporation and quickly feel in both body and mind the joy of living.

It's a safe way, too—for every day you continue this easy method of losing unwanted and unneeded flesh, you'll gain in energy, vigor and endurance.

Nine times in ten obesity means inactivity — it means that your blood is starving for the six vital salts your internal organs need to keep you youthful, active, ambitious and keen in mind.

When you take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts every morning in a glass of hot or cold water you get these six vital salts which modern foods and cooking do not supply.

Start taking Kruschen Salts—that's the common-sense way to reduce—but don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves.

This is what they do—they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys, and liver in splendid working shape and fill you with a vigor and tireless energy you'd most forgotten had existed.

The urge for activity will be so marked that even at the end of a hard day's work, you'll feel ready for any social activity or recreation—you can play as hard as you work.

And after two weeks your excess flesh starts to go—you'll know it—feel it—see it—the scales will tell the story.

As one, once corpulent man remarked:—"I feel so energetic that I want to get up with the lark and I'm just as lively as a cricket."

Kruschen Salts is not a purgative or a cathartic, but a real system conditioner and for those who are the victims of constipation or toxemia its daily use soon means blissful regularity.

Get an 85 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts—lasts 4 weeks—at La Moine Drug company, or any druggist in the world.

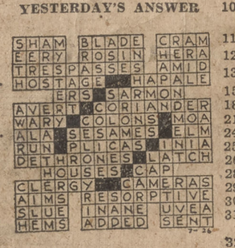
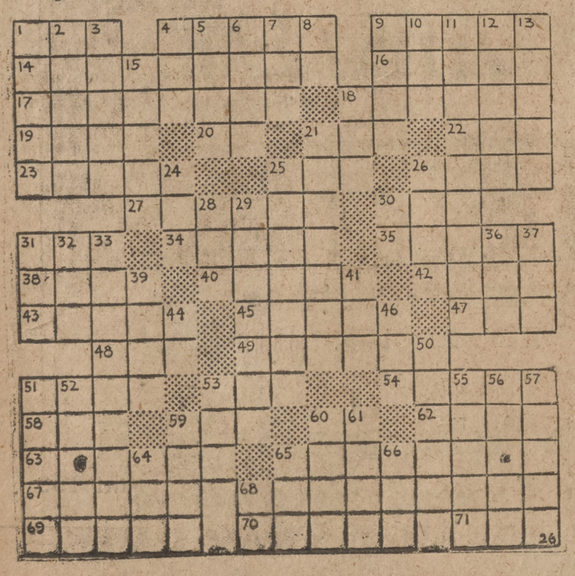
YESTERDAY'S ANSWER





CROOK DRAMA ENDS AT FOX TONIGHT

Human interest is the keynote of "Good Intentions," the Fox movietone all talking feature at the Fox-California all talking feature at the Fox-California theater this week. William K. Howard, the author and director of the picture has undertaken the difficult task of portraying a crook sympathetically and convincingly—and he has accomplished his purpose in a most praiseworthy manner.

Edmund Lowe, in the principal role, does a marvelous job of impersonating the slightly Jekyll-and-Hydeish character of the gang leader who tries to reform and with the assistance of a genuinely noteworthy cast and Howard's deft directorial touches, he succeeds in making the story not only plausible but thoroughly entertaining.

Lowe's sudden passion for the straight and narrow path is due to his sudden emotions over a society debutante, delightfully played by Marguerite Churchill, as well as to his acquisition of a comfortable fortune through his illegal activities. His former associates, however, fail to agree with him on this reformation business; in fact they are distinctly hostile to to the idea.

This as well as the appearance of a rival in the girl's affections brings about a series of exciting events, all touching deeply on Lowe's well being and contributing to the breath-taking qualities of the picture.

The entire cast works as a well oiled and obviously well directed group with outstanding performances by Regis Toomey, Hale Hamilton, Owen Davis, Jr., Earl Foxe, Eddie Gribbon, J. Carro Naish, Pat Somerset, Georgia Caine and Henry Kolker, who also staged the production. The continuity adaptation and dialogue are the work of George Manker Watters and Cliff Friend and James V. Monaco wrote the effective music.

Also on the program is a talking comedy entitled "Love, Honor and Oh Baby."

Anti-Trust Act Scored By Lawyers

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—UP—Important changes in the Sherman anti trust law to remedy what was termed an "intolerable situation" were recommended in a commerce committee report submitted today at the 53rd annual convention of the American Bar Ass'n.

The committee took the stand that the Sherman law should be revised in order that the Federal Trade Commission might be empowered to determine in advance, before an agreement is put in operation, whether the agreement is in restraint of trade.

As the law now stands, the report recited, the only way an agreement can be tested for its legality is to put it into operation and run the risk of its being declared a violation of the law, which carries the threat of criminal prosecution.

The weakness of the law in this respect, it was contended, is its failure to define definitely just what acts will be considered criminal.

FLINT SLAYER SAID TO BE INSANE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21.—UP—That Frank D. Keaton was subject to fits and had spent considerable time in a hospital in Colorado as a result of being struck on the head by a block and tackle, was testified today by his wife, Mrs. Miriam Keaton, when Keaton's fight to prove himself insane at the time he shot and killed Motley Flint opened in Superior Judge B. Rey Schauer's court.

Sobbing quietly, Mrs. Keaton took the stand after the jury of six women and six men had been selected, and under questioning by Defense Attorney Paul D'Orr, went into details of her married life.

She stated her husband was of the "stay at home type" and told her he was subject to spells. "When you see me having a spell leave me alone," he told her, the woman testified.

Keaton, who shot the wealthy banker as the latter stepped down from the witness stand in Superior Judge Frank C. Collier's court, after testifying in a civil suit, withdrew his plea of not guilty in favor of not guilty by reason of insanity.

By withdrawing his former plea, the defendant admitted the slaying and must be assumed sane until proven otherwise, Judge Schauer ruled.

FLIERS WING WAY TO MEET

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—UP—Chicago experienced its first acute attack of "air-mindedness" today as five groups of planes streaked along as many airlines terminating at Curtis-Reynolds airport, scene of the National Air races of 1930.

With the air derbyists advancing a stage closer to their goal in the races for rich prizes and high honors, the arrival of Europe's crack pilots in a city bedecked with flags and air race banners served further to center attention on aviation and its heroes.

Reports from the airports which surround the metropolis on three sides indicated that scores of spectators and participants in the air festival opening Saturday were arriving by planes which they set to work tuning up for tomorrow's demonstration over the loop.

Meanwhile the vanguard of the million persons who are expected to attend the week-long program were reports and selecting winners in the five cross-country derbies not in progress.

Of the greatest interest are the six women pilots enroute here from Long Beach, Calif. Other cross country events include the men's Seattle-to-Chicago; the Brownsville-to-Chicago in which only two men are competing, the the race for low-power planes which started today from Hartford Conn., and the Miami-to-Chicago race in which three men pilots are entered.

Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell, who left two children behind in Long Beach, was still leading her five rivals for women's derby honors when the covey of aviatrices from the West Coast landed in Amarillo Tex., today after a flight from Lubbock. Margery Doig of Danbury, Conn., was second. The women started last Sunday at Long Beach and are due here Monday.

In the two-man race from Brownsville, Tex., between Jack Livingston, of Auroa, Ill., and W. G. Moore of Kansas City, Mo., moved farther north today's races ending at Tulsa, Okla., with Livingston still ahead in elapsed time.

Verne Roberts of New York set his plane down at Syracuse, N. Y. this afternoon to take the lead at the end of the first day in the men's Atlantic derby, class B which started this morning from Hartford, Conn. Tomorrow morning the fliers in this event take off for Buffalo.

RED CROSS IN PLANS FOR SHOW

The committee in charge of the Red Cross Variety show, to be given Aug. 29, at the Roosevelt auditorium, has arranged for a varied program by excellent talent that will be well worth attending, according to an announcement last night.

Mrs. Zelda Chapin, program director ,has secured three short plays as part of the program, one of which will be put on by Richmond talent while the other two will be handled by the Playmakers association of Berkeley.

The playlet chosen for the Richmond talent is a comedy sketch called "Poor Old Jim" and is from the pen of W. C. DeMille, a noted author of plays and sketches. The play in brief concerns the manner in which a neglected wife brings her husband to time. Said husband had taken to imbibing on occasion, staying out to the club too much and neglecting wife and home.

Brown To Direct

The clever and satisfactory manner in which the spouse teaches her errant husband a lesson, forms the plot of this play.

Gervase Brown, who will direct this offering has had considerable experience both in directing and acting and will turn out an entertainment worthy of our home talent, it is said.

Those taking part in the play are Mrs. Genevieve Brown, Allen Moore and Melvin Sprague.

Two numbers will be presented by the Playmakers of Berkeley, one a drama entitled "Sheep" and the other a comedy entitled "A Weakness for Nurses."

The drama "Sheep" was written by Ellen Irwin Winters and received first prize in the annual contest held by the Berkeley organization. This sketch has been published by Samuel French and Co., of New York, who have listed it high among the works they have produced.

Play Planned

"A Weakness for Nurses" is a comedy from the pen of Edna Higgins Stracham and is guaranteed to evoke a good laugh, according to the committee.

The high schoo' orchestra under the direction of George Morris will be in the pit to render musical selections between curtains while there will be other variety numbers interspersed throughout the program.

Emile Esola has been obtained to present some piano numbers and the Richmond Pyramid of Sciots will sponsor a number to be secured from San Francisco.

Tickets Sold

Tickets are being handled by various members of the local Red Cross and can also be secured at the Marathon Candy store. Some of the seats are to be reserved.

The local Red Cross again desires to acquaint the community with the fact that this entertainment is being presented for the welfare fund which is used in the work being conducted among ex-service men and families who are in need of such aid.

Success in Saving Money Depends on Action

Everybody knows the wisdom and the value of saving money and nearly everybody means to save some time. The trouble with the most of us is that we promise ourselves that we will save in the future. We intend to save a part of our income. We have good intentions but put off action until we have spent our money for other things. But mere wishing and hoping are not enough. We must act.

The all important thing is to begin. Start a savings account today in one of the 95 conveniently located offices of the American Trust Company.

Justice Dept. Makes Report On Dry Law

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—UP—Results of the Justice department's first month of prohibition enforcement ,showing arrests continuing to exceed the capacity of courts to try offenders, were made public today by Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcook.

The statistics related to the month of July, the Justice Department having assumed responsibility for enforcement on July 1, when Woodcook took office.

There were 22,173 cases pending on the criminal dockets on July 1 in the 12 administrative districts, the report showed. During July 6524 prohibition arrests were made and in 3228 cases the arrested persons were held by U. S. commissioners for trials.

On Aug. 1 the number of cases pending had increased to 12,497, or 324 more than on July 1. Woodcook explained this increase was due partially to the fact July is a vacation month and many judges were away from their courts.

In the first month of the new regime Woodcook was able to list 1932 convictions, sentences aggregating 127,804 days in jail and fines totaling $218,752.48. There were 202 acquittals or cases in which U. S. attorneys quashed indictments.

Auto, Garage Razed By Fire

The Richmond fire department, which answered the call, arrived in time to stop the fire from spreading, but was unable to save the structure or machine.

The following relatives are left to mourn: his mother, Mrs. Sarah M. Swan of Willits; a daughter, Charlotte Swan of San Francisco; a son, Fred Swan, Jr., of New York, former captain of the Stanford football squad, two brothers, W. A. Swan of Belmont and Arthur A. Swan of San Francisco, and two sisters, Emma Swan of Mill Valley and Mrs. Guy Aiken of Willits.

CLOTHES AND THE WOMAN

MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

AUGUST straws show how autumn fashion blows. Like most of our readers, we have been following the far-flung reports of Paris openings at the important dressmaking establishments and the stories of fashion shows here in New York. With a dozen faithfully clipped accounts of such events before us, we can report the exhilarating news that 1930-31 styles seem to be no worse than those of 1929-30—seem, in fact, to be considerably nearer to the heart's desire of the sane American woman. Can it be that she actually has convinced the designers that, like Harry Leon Wilson's immortal Cousin Egbert, she "can be pushed just so far," and no farther?

Honestly, that's how it looks. You know as well as we how, beginning at this time last year, women raged and revolted against the return of the long skirt and of the corseted waist. Fannie Hurst, Rita Weiman and other distinguished individuals, as well as the mass of clubwomen, led and organized the protest.

Before long French and American designers were falling over one another—almost as if they themselves had been wearing long skirts—to assert that each group had misinterpreted and overdone the other group's ideas, that nobody was asking women to wear long dresses "except in the evening," that the new corsets were guaranteed to interfere neither with health nor with comfort. Implacably the sane majority of women translated their anti-long-skirt campaign speeches into acts. Formal dance frocks were worn long (usually, then, under protest), but street wear, the ubiquitous sports frocks and charming dressy silk ones stayed just below the knee.

WITH what result in this summer of 1930?

First advices from Paris had the hemline running to even greater length than last season. Whereupon the president of the Garment Retailers of America issued a statement that Americans are interested in sensible skirt lengths for women more than they are in following the fanciful edicts of French dressmakers, that skirt lengths are from thirteen to seventeen inches from the floor and there they stay.

Later French openings seemed actually to swing into the American line. Dispatches from the French capital now agree that afternoon dresses measure from eight to twelve or thirteen inches from the floor.

At least one famous French designer is showing dinner dresses twelve inches from the floor.

Another house exhibits many evening gowns of ankle length.

Another couturier cuts his evening gowns twelve inches from the floor in front, so that the wearer may walk without tripping even if her dress touches at the back.

Trains, according to report, are cut off in their prime.

The one exception to this last rule is the one simon pure idiocy which we have discovered in the descriptions of new models—a pajama suit made of wine-colored transparent velvet with a train. Surely these are the original cat's pajamas!

A FINAL sop to good sense in dress is the new hat which will be worn off the forehead instead of jammed over it like a compressed steel band, with the resultant headaches and wrinkles, a hat which will even disclose what has been for so long woman's most shameful secret—her possession of back hair!

Yes, really, the new duds sound rather nice. Next thing is to find the money to buy them!

I. Typical Reunion

I haven't seen Martin for years,
In fact, I didn't even know
That he signs M. D. after his name
And has now become a figure
In the medical world.
Suddenly, as I sat on the beach,
Basking in the hot sun,
Lo and behold! the young man
Stood right before me.
"Martin," I stammered, surprised.
I looked up into a pair of dark eyes.
And one hundred and eighty pounds of
Handsome masculinity looked down upon me.
He sat down
And we talked and talked
About mutual friends
Of bygone days,
And past fun.
We discussed our likes
And also our dislikes.
We talked about marriage,
His career. . . .
Even love.
He told me I was clever.
In fact, he found me witty,
He admired my figure.
Thought me really worth while.
Then the time came to say good-by.
I saw a wistful look come into his eyes
And his face grew sad.
"Cheer up," I said.
"I'll see you some more."
"I'm so discouraged," he answered
"For I've looked everyhere—
"Maybe you'll help me find
"The IDEAL GIRL."

FLIGHTS FOR HUSBANDS

Jimmy Collins, the aviator, telephoned from Detroit to his Great Neck home 4:30 P. M. the other day and his wife asked him to hurry home for dinner. He boarded his plane and got there in time to welcome the guests. If the airplane is actually going to keep men from being late to dinner, it will indeed be the marvel of the century, in the eyes of wives.

HER LAUGHTER

I have heard it rippling
Pontagiously bright
Flecked with the love
Of a star-pierced night.

I have heard it cynical,
Crisp and brown
As the curled, dead leaves
Autumn blows down.

I have heard it tearful,
Broken and high
As wind-mad rain
In a sultry sky.

I have heard it vibrating
Rich and proud;
Purple as any
A dusk-dipped cloud.

Paint on Kitchen Floors

PAINTED FLOORS are in vogue now since color is in such favor in the kitchen. It is not a very durable finish for a soft wood floor, but it is easy to keep clean, for water and grease can readily be wiped from a painted floor without leaving a stain, so as long as color reigns in the kitchen the painted floor will be preferred because it can be made to harmonize with the woodwork and furnishings.

When only one or two floors are to be done it will be found more convenient and economical to use the ready mixed paints. The exact shade desired may be secured by adding tints carefully.

Before painting a kitchen floor the wood should be clean and dry and perfectly free from dust. It should have three coats of paint and each coat should be absolutely dry before applying the next one.

After the last coat of paint is thoroughly dry a coating of equal parts of turpentine and linseed oil may be rubbed on with a soft cloth and the floor then polished with a woolen cloth. This gives a beautiful lustrous finish and acts as a preservative to the paint.

"How did you prove it?"

"I licked Tommy Watkins."

"Oh, go to bed."

THINK IT OVER

By Alfalfa Smith

HAVE you ever seen a child? The child is not afraid. If he were he would worry about bumping his head—he would worry about crawling around—he would be scared to grow up. But he keeps going until he grows up and then he begins to be afraid.

If you do not believe this, look at the people around you hurrying.

Hurrying is FEAR. You are afraid you will miss something.

Consider the baby and—BE WISE.

Tunics Turn Into the Fashion Picture

TUNIC DRESS OF CANTON CREPE WITH APPLIQUED TRIMMING

By Ann Roberts

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

IF you are all set for a new sensation in the way of a dress, then have a tunic. It is an old idea in a new guise and most awfully becoming. Hardly a woman who will not welcome the plan, for its youthfulness is obvious.

How to wear them? With what? When to begin?

Well, the fall is the time—those first cool days when the year's sensation for clothes is due you. You've almost got to steal the money in order to give yourself that thrill. It is woman's own right.

Patou is doing tunics that are long and wrapped and draped—very subtle in line and utterly charming, reaching to within five inches of the hem of the underskirt. Then they range to various lengths, some above the knees, some just to the knees. Some are very Russian looking, loose, with full sleeves—others more plain and tailored in line and finish.

Let's take a tunic dress or two—right for the first days of fall, and consider them in relation to the things that should be worn with them, making a perfect ensemble with which to start the new season.

* * *

Silk Tunic Frock

KEEP your dress very simple, made of Canton crepe in fine quality so that the full beauty of the new lines will show to advantage. Let the tunic just about escape the knees unless you are very tall, in which case it can come a trifle below the knees.

Have ready to wear with this a black coat of soft cloth in the nature of a suede cloth. A precious skin of silver fox on the collar or no trimming at all, which also is very smart. The skirt of this should flare a little and should be made to wear with or without a belt—that is, belted if your figure accepts the waistline accent well, and worn loose if it does not.

Wear a velvet beret or a turban smartly draped but kept close to the head. Wear turquoise beads or pearls or if you wish to be very smart and can carry off the severity, go without jewelry of any sort.

For shoes wear suede pumps with side bows or cut steel bows in the front. Or you can wear plain kid pumps or one strap pumps with open shank if you prefer.

Gloves? Yes, white lace or suede with your pearl jewelry either black or white with the torquoise jewelry.

Carry a kid or antelope bag and here you can repeat your jewelry note with a clasp or a monogram, or a retiring bit of trimming.

* * *

Ideal for Street Wear

NOTHING is nicer for daytime wear either in the city or the country than the tunic frock made from some material of the jersey type.

This sort of dress has a decided Russian character in the design of its tunic and is made in a bright, five color of blue. Wear a black jersey turban wound in with some of the bright blue from which the dress is made. Or you can have a black felt with just a touch of a bright blue feather.

Your wrap can be a top coat affair with a big wrapped collar buttoned over with one big button and big wide cuffs. In blue and white mixed tweed it will be very smart, but if you wish to wear it with other things, then have the fabric a soft black tweed.

Now, you see how you could change the color of this dress and the other things that go with it according to your own taste. A wine color dress would be very good with a wine and black tweed coat. Rust color with black is swell and green with brown will be an absolutely safe bet—and smart too.

Your purse would be pin seal, or water snake, or kid dyed the color of your dress—or black or brown to match the coat.

Shoes—With the blue and black costume wear black suede ties trimmed with kid with either a leather or a calf covered heel. Don't wear ties with flat low heels with a dress of this sort. Stick to the Cuban.

Stockings grow darker in tone as the summer leaves us. Dark brown, very sheer stockings to wear with the brown, and stockings with a decidedly gray cast to wear with the wine or blue.

Jewelry for this ensemble will be crystal in the chosen color or white ivory or a combination of blue and white in either of these materials.

Gloves will match the stockings—suede preferably.

These are just concrete ideas of the way the styles are being assembled for the new season. Others will come along as fast as you can read them.

(Once again a Beauty Queen of the Universe has been elected. In order that our feminine subscribers may be in the running next year, we present the secrets of success by a former monarch of loveliness and beauty, who won the title several years ago. The following article from the pen of Miss Universe of 192—? tells her experiences before and after winning the crown. Her advice on health and beauty will explain how YOU can be elected Miss Universe. We paid cash for this feature, but you get it in installments.)

BY A FORMER MISS UNIVERSE

I NEVER knew I had sex appeal until I read the symptoms in the papers. It was an ad and said you could develop it by mail just like banjo playing or becoming a detective. So I clipped the coupon and sent $1.50 for the lessons. Of course the buying power of the dollar was much greater in those days.

The lessons came securely wrapped in a plain envelope. Father thought they were seeds from our Congressman. But at the end of six months I got my diploma, making me a certified public vampire. The following summer I went to Galveston, Tex., and was elected Miss Universe on the thirty-seventh ballot. Alabama gave its twenty votes to an Underwood typewriter who was not so hot.

After winning the title of Beauty Queen of the Universe, I went to Hollywood to enter the movies. I tried to see nineteen different directors, but they were all busy having their puttees shined. I was discouraged, but refused to quit Hollywood.

* * *

About this time my father was drinking rather heavily. I couldn't hide glycerine in my make-up box but what he would steal it to make gin. But I will say this for my daddy. He favored prohibition for everyone else. Each night he tuned in on the W. C. T. U., thinking it was a radio station. Of course the reception was very poor, but he thought the static was logic and said the arguments were very good.

By this time I was desperate. I was down to my last two nickels and those were counterfeits. Finally there was an opportunity to work behind an oyster bar. I couldn't handle the shucking knife, so I had to open oysters with my teeth. The manager said he would pay $7 a week and give me 50 per cent of all the pearls.

But at last my big chance came to get in the movies. In the all-important screen test I got 90 per cent in reading, 85 per cent in writhing and 78 per cent in looks. Then they tested me for other attributes. I scored 50 per cent in sex appeal. They said I had sex, but no appeal.

"Little girl," the director finally said, "I'll give you a chance. Report here tomorrow morning and I will cast you in the role of Bluebeard's ninth wife—after the old boy went blind."

* * *

After that, life was one mad whirl in the movie set. One night I went on a big jamboree. There I met a millionaire, who had made a fortune renting swamps to the billboard trust. I also met another rich man, Mr. Mason, the big steamship magnate. He said he was half owner of the Mason and Dixon Line.

Right off the bat he started getting familiar. He called me by my first name. When I protested he excused himself on the ground he was a Rotarian. This man started a frenzied courtship of me. He said if I would marry him we would go for the summer to Narragansett Pier. I told him I wasn't going to spend any vacation on a dock.

As the night wore on the party got rough. They served us dandelion wine, and I think the cocktails were made of spinach. A lot of Hollywood ingenues were present, and you should have seen those babies take their 10 o'clock bottle! Pretty soon everyone knew everyone else. I ran into two fellows who wrote for the movies. They said they were gag men. I know they made me sick.

We were having a furious time when someone suggested we play games. So we all blindfolded ourselves and made believe we had drunk wood alcohol. Quite a few notable persons were present, including the Pshaw of Persia and the Seldom of Turkey. Will Hays sent his regrets.

About 2 A. M. my old rheumatism came back. Anyway, I felt myself getting stiff. I complained some fresh air would do me good, so they put me out on the veranda to die. It's a gay life being Miss Universe, and I wouldn't have missed it for worlds.

THIS AND THAT

Two years ago Mr. Hoover fixed things up when the Mississippi overflowed its banks. Now he's going to fix the drought, with the river running dry. You can always depend on Herbert to rush relief, whether it requires rubber boots or a pith helmet.

The latest best seller, entitled Queer People, isn't, as you might think, about folks who play miniature golf.

We're just waiting for the Anti-Saloon League to take credit for the record-breaking dry spell.

When they play the Cubs this week, we hope those Chicago fans don't mistake the Robins for clay pigeons.

We wish Mrs. Patterson, the Washington editress, would straighten out that Gann-Longworth war for good by making Alice sit in the slot and assigning Dolly to the Morgue.

A DISH A DAY

(Copyright, 1930, by North American Newspaper Alliance)

The extent to which our housewives have become experts in making salads and desserts in mechanical refrigerators was shown last week at the refrigeration show sponsored by Abraham & Strauss. About nine hundred Long Island housewives applied to compete in a dessert and salad-making contest, and the twenty whose names were drawn for the competition produced many interesting and attractive creations. So difficult was it to choose among the dishes entered in the contest that the three judges, Oscar of the Waldorf, C. K. Dwinell of the New Yorker Hotel, and myself sampled each of the dishes again and again, argued, conferred, and then tasted again.

One of the prizes, a gas-operated mechanical refrigerator, was won by Mrs. William H. Handforth of 843 Bergen Street, Brooklyn. I am sure you would like to know about her prize-winning fruit salad, an ingenious creation which she calls Ducklings on a Pond, so I will postpone until tomorrow the dish announced for today and give you, instead, her recipe.

KAREN HOLLIS

The entries were judged on appearance as well as taste, and it may interest you to know that it was not the most elaborate and ingeniously decorated creation that won the prize but the one that appeared most refreshing and tempting. Curlicues of whipped cream, tortuously carved fruits and candy decorations may have their attractions, but on a hot day cool, refreshing colors and simplicity of arrangement have greater appeal.

DUCKLINGS ON A POND

1 package lemon flavored gelatine
1 pint boiling water
Green coloring
3 cups seedless grapes
3 peaches
3 packages cream cheese
½ orange (peel only)
6 almonds
Raisins
1 cup mayonnaise
Bunch of watercress

Dissolve the gelatine in boiling water, add a few drops of green coloring and let it cool slightly.

When it begins to thicken pour a thin layer in a round mold with a tube center. On this arrange the seedless green grapes. These are the pebbles on the shore. Over this pour a layer of gelatine and put it in the icebox to set. Keep the remainder of the gelatine soft by setting its container in a pan of hot water. When the gelatine over the grapes has set, arrange a layer of halved peeled peaches over it and pour on top the remainder of the gelatine. The peaches represent rocks. Put the mold in the icebox to chill thoroughly.

Mold the cream cheese into the form of ducks, using one-half cake for each one. Into each side press an almond, to represent a wing, and cut out pieces of raisin for eyes, and a large peel for the nose. Set these in the icebox to chill.

When about ready to serve, unmold the jelly on a bed of watercress. Scoop out half an orange and fill the orange cup with mayonnaise. Place this in the center of the mold and arrange the cheese ducks around the top.

When you see how attractive this looks, and find how delicious it tastes, you will assuredly agree with the judges who proclaimed it a masterpiece.

Pollyanna Looks at Summer

"OH THIS awful, awful heat!"

"Isn't it ghastly!"

"I simply hate summer—yes, even in the country!"

"Feel so much better in cold weather!"

FRANCES OLIVIER

Report of repartee to be heard at any gathering, smart or otherwise, these days. Seems nobody loves nobody except your own dear little Pollyanna who happens to see summer's side of it.

Summer's not half bad, really. Ask any doctor and he will tell you there is much less illness now than in February, for example. Then look at it from the beauty angle.

Hot weather is a marvelous skin-clearer and reducer—the perspiring, of course. In winter one has to exercise pretty strenuously—or take vapor baths—to get the same results.

Another of summer's good points. We most of us realize that water is a marvelous beauty potion, yet how many of us will drink the required seven or eight glasses—until hot weather comes and we are driven to drink! Small wonder skins have greater clarity and eyes more sparkle in summer.

The hair benefits by torrid weather too. The tendency is to whip off hats and let the crowning glory fly in the breeze and bathe in the sun. And that is excellent for the scalp, the hair and the brain.

Ye Beauty Shop has railed often and much against the all too common practice of getting sunburned. Expose any skin to the direct rays of the sun, summer after summer, and it isn't long before that skin dries and coarsens and lines begin to appear around the eyes. Even young skins cannot escape these penalties.

On the other hand, a light burning and peeling of the skin, once a year, or once in two years, has decidedly beneficial effects upon the texture of the skin, especially upon acne-scarred skins, or pitted skins. So let there be one surf bath or one game of tennis where you forget to apply your sunburn preventive. Do not, however, neglect to guard the very delicate skin round your eyes. Smooth a little cream into that area to keep squint lines and summer crows' feet away.

"But the heat makes me so lazy," says the person who doesn't like summer.

Nonsense, it's just urging you to relax. And a fine thing too for taut nerves and tense minds and bodies. If it weren't for the heat and its power to gear us down, we'd all be nervous wrecks. At least, a great many more of us would be.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

BANK OF ITALY FOUNDER DIES

SAUSALITO, Aug. 21.—UP—Lorenzo Scatena, stepfather of A. P. Giannini and co-founder with him of the Bank of Italy, died at his home here today at the age of 80.

The aged financier had been ill for several months.

Giannini, hurrying here by plane after cancelling a tour of Europe with his family, lost the race by eight hours. He arrived here by plane tonight. Scatena died at 11:28 o'clock this morning.

Those at the deathbed of the banker were his daughter-in-law, Mrs. L. A. Selver and George Giannini, another of his stepsons.

Scatena started his career here as a penniless immigrant. He was born in Italy in 1850 and came to California direct from Italy at the age of 12.

His first real business was buying and selling farm produce. Later with the help of his stepson, A. P. Gianni, he founded the Bank of Italy.

STUDENTS HOLD FIRST RALLY AT HIGH

Finances, football, a pep rally, and Student association membership were discussed at the term's first large assembly of Richmond Union high school students yesterday.

Principal B. X. Tucker outlined several expenditures necessary at the high school this semester. The main item listed by Tucker was the payment of $140 for football suits ,which have been purchased for this years' grid team. He dealt on the necessity of a large Students association, and mentioned a rally, noon dances, entertainments, and evening dances as future activities that will require a large Student Body fund.

Following the talk by the principal, Harry Transue, president of the Student Body, took the gavel, and presided over a pep meeting at which student leaders addressed the pupils on the necessity of purchasing Student Body membership cards.

The speakers were: Walter Thomas, former Student Body president; Jack Stoddard, Elva Plouff, Woodrow Snodgrass, and William Outman, student athletic manager.

A pep rally on the night preceding the game with Oakland Technical high school was also suggested at yesterday's meeting. A huge bonfire, yells, and pep talks will all be in order next Thursday night.
